

Module 8: Review and Reflection

Required Reading	NONE
Assignment Due Dates	- Complete Step 1, 2, and 3 by Wednesday, May 14^h at noon NO LATE WORK WILL BE ACCEPTED FOR THIS MODULE.

I. Introduction

One of the most critical and important professional habits you can develop is the habit of review and reflection. Ideally this is something you do frequently during the process of a work effort, but ending a project creates a special opportunity for reflection.

If you are working on a team or have a number of collaborators it is always good to try and bring people together to critique the work effort and work product, as well as the way of working together. A good starting point is to ask people to think of a few things that seemed to work well and a few things that seemed to be troublesome both about the work process and the work product.

For the final activity of this course we'd like you to review your work, work method and how well or not the class helped you meet the course objectives. Please complete the following 4 steps and then have a great summer!

Step 1. Design Reflection

Create a reflection statement for your design work starting with module 4 through module 7. In this design work you had a number of tasks and a number of ways of working (individually, with peer review and in a group)

1. Identify 2 or 3 aspects of the work (aspects of working with the group or buddies, doing the analysis, building the prototype, etc.) that you feel good about. Please explain what you think led to the good result.

2. Identify 2 or 3 aspects of the work that you feel could have been done better or were troublesome. Please explain what you think led to the weak result and what you might do differently in the future.

Step 2. Course Reflection

Create a reflection statement for your personal learning and growth during the course. We're not going to give you a set format for this reflection statement, but we suggest considering the following questions: As a designer building professional competence in what ways have you grown and how do you feel about your growth and competence? In what areas do you need and desire further development? What aspects of the course were particularly valuable or not very helpful to your personal growth? If you have suggestions for making the course a better learning experience for future students we would be grateful for your suggestions. You don't need to make the written statement long.....just thoughtful....a paragraph or two is probably sufficient.

Place the reflection statements from steps 1 and 2 in a word/html or pdf file, name it "last name + Reflection," and upload to the module 8/Reflection Submission folder by Thursday, May 15th at noon. NO LATE WORK WILL BE ACCEPTED IN THIS MODULE.

Step 3.

The university requests evaluations of courses from all enrolled students. Please refer to the announcement about the course evaluation. We will post the announcement with the links for the evaluation surveys during the last week.

II. Assessment

Your Module 8 assignments will be graded based on the following criteria:

Assignments	Points
Step 1 & 2: - Complete the Design and Course reflection (Step)	4
Step 3: - Complete Course Evaluation survey	1
Total Points	5

*Note. Points given will base on the quality of work.
